GAME-FAQ

What makes a good score?

Scores in the 9000s are pretty good and it's best to avoid anything below 6000. The super rare and ultra rare cards are normally more powerful than the common ones, but not always!

What if it's a draw?

If both players have the same score at any point, they put the two cards in the middle. The same player reads out a score from his next card. The player with the highest score wins.

LEVEL 1 COMBAT

STEP 1

Each player has his own deck. Start by taking out all the bonus cards. Then decide how many cards to play with – both players must have the same.

STEP 2

Each player shuffles his deck and picks it up so he can only see his top card.

STEP 3

Player 1 picks a category with a good score from his first card, and reads out the green number.

STEP 4

Player 2 looks at the same category and colour on his first card, then reads out his score. The player with the higher score wins. The winner puts his card at the back of his deck and the loser puts his card to one side on his discard pile.

STEP 5

Now Player 2 gets to choose a category from the new top card on his deck and reads out the green score (next time Player 1 gets to choose again).

STEP 6

The game continues until one player has no cards left in his hand at all.

FAQ WHO IS THE... DOCTOR?

He's fought loads of monsters and saved the world time and time again, but who is he?

Q Who exactly is this Doctor?

He's a Time Lord, which means he can travel through space and time. He calls himself the Doctor, because his real name is unpronounceable.

Q Where is he from? Is he human?

The Doctor is an alien from the planet Gallifrey, but he loves Earth and humans are his favourite species.

Q What's that blue box?

That's the TARDIS, the Doctor's space ship. The initials stand for Time And Relative Dimension In Space.

Q It doesn't much look like a space ship...

It used to be able to change shape and blend into its surroundings. But when it landed on Earth in the 1960s it broke and has looked like an old-fashioned Police Box ever since.

Q How come he looked different before?

The Doctor has a handy skill – when his body is badly injured, he can cheat death by regenerating. The only thing is, he looks different and has a different personality every time.

“The Doctor is a legend, woven throughout history.”

HE'S CHANGED!!!

MAKING THE # SLITHEEN

When you want to make a Slitheen you need a lot of foam rubber, a remote control head, and a very, very patient actor.

Making a nine-foot tall alien farting monster is all in a day's work for the Doctor Who team. Each Slitheen suit has to be made specially. First the designers cover the actor in plaster from head to foot. When the plaster sets, they crack it open and let the actor out. Because the plaster keeps the actor's shape they can use it as a mould to make a suit that fits perfectly. Next the designers sculpt the body in foam, carve the skin texture into it and spray-paint it green. The Slitheen's claws are much bigger than human hands so they have to be controlled by cables. Because the Slitheen are very tall, the actor's head only comes up to the neck and they wear the Slitheen head like a big hat. That head is packed with electronics that are remote controlled just like a toy car. Stick it on and you're ready for action!

DID YOU KNOW?

The team only ever made three different Slitheen suits.

DOES MY BUM LOOK BIG IN THIS?

BABYFACE

SIZE 15
FEET!

WHAT IS A SLITHEEN?

The Slitheen family are huge, green monsters who pass themselves off as real people by squeezing into human skin suits. They first met the Doctor in Episode 4 'Aliens of London'.

Nice trousers!

Three pairs of legs just waiting for some actors to fill them.

A TIGHT FIT!

Wearing a Slitheen body suit isn't easy.

Once you've put the outfit on it's like being wrapped up in a foam mattress. TV studios are hot places so you sweat buckets. In fact after a while you start leaving little puddles of sweat everywhere you go. By the end of the day you can actually squeeze water out of the suit like a flannel! You get to take the head off when there's a break, and if you're lucky someone might pull an arm off to cool you down. The rest of the suit doesn't come off easily, so you can forget going for a pee! One way or another the end of the day can't come soon enough.

The finished monster!

PAINFUL DEATH

Dalek energy blasts kill instantly. The victim feels agonizing pain as their body is riddled with radiation and their organs turn to jelly.

EXTERMINATE

DALEK MUTANT

When you look at a Dalek what you see is armour. Inside there is a hideous creature that looks a bit like a squid with lots of tentacles and a big eye.

DALEKS

DEALERS OF DEATH!

CONTROL CENTRE

The Dalek mutant controls all the weapons just by thinking.

ARMOUR

The Dalek's armour is made of an incredibly tough metal called Dalekenium. As long as it has enough energy it can repair any damage.

ELEVATE!

Special antigravity units in the base let the Dalek hover.

5 WAYS TO DESTROY A DALEK

- 1 If you've only got a normal gun, your best chance is to shoot the eyestalk. You'll have to get past the Dalek's shields first though.
- 2 Use a very powerful energy weapon. Captain Jack has several guns that will do the job.
- 3 Electrocute the Dalek for a very long time. This means getting the Dalek to stay still, which may not be easy.
- 4 Create a delta wave (a giant pulse of deadly energy). Unfortunately, this will kill anybody who gets in its way, including you.
- 5 Look in to the time vortex and become all powerful, like Rose did. This will kill you too.

The Dalek's 'sucker' attachment is also a weapon that can be used to suck a man's face off, killing him in seconds.

DALEK WARS

In 2164 a massive Dalek fleet comes to Earth and takes on the army, the navy and the air force.

INVASION EARTH: 2164

The Daleks bring devastation to the streets of London

In the 22nd century, the Daleks came closer than ever to conquering Earth. When the Dalek fleet entered the atmosphere, the government threw everything they could into defending London. The air force committed fleets of helicopters and fighters to attacking a vast Dalek ship that hovered over Big Ben. Tanks rolled down the streets and the navy sent gunboats down the Thames. The battle was furious and the Daleks took heavy casualties but in the end they were just too powerful and within a matter of days they'd taken control of the entire planet.

Their plan was to turn the Earth into a vast spaceship by hollowing out its core and fitting it with massive engines. They needed human slaves to do this so they captured people and performed brain surgery on them to turn them

But humans would never bow to Dalek control and a resistance movement sprung up. With help from a mysterious visitor called 'the Doctor' they managed to interfere with the Daleks' communications and blow up their invasion force, which was collected around the shaft they had drilled to the centre of the planet. Their plans in ruins, the Daleks were forced to retreat, leaving Earth free once again.
